Building Bridges for Brianna

Building Bridges for Brianna, founded by Matt Dorgan in York County, PA, aims to prevent suicide and self-injury while supporting mental health nationwide. Inspired by the loss of his daughter, Brianna, Matt emphasizes community support and connecting those in need with help. The organization promotes suicide awareness, funds prevention programs, and supports families dealing with mental health issues.

Since meeting Matt in 2023, the York County Medical Foundation donated $80,000 to Building Bridges, enabling the organization to open up their first office where they were able to see clients. Within a year of opening, Building Bridges moved to a new office in Dallastown, enabling them to service more persons needing mental health care. The 2025 Golf Event enabled the Foundation to donate the monies to purchase a car for the transport of individuals needing mental health care. To date, Building Bridges has impacted over 400 clients!

On August 28, 2024, Matt was named the national winner of the Jefferson Award for Public Service!

The York County Medical Foundation was founded in 1991 primarily to provide free care and surgical procedures to the poor, at home and in developing nations.

Dr. Vasudevan Tiruchelvam (“Dr. Tiru”), Foundation President, and his surgical teams perform free surgical procedures in third-world regions and bring both resources and hope to underserved areas of the world.

In addition to its work abroad, YCMF contributes to a wide variety of local organizations.

2026 Outlook & New Partnerships

Building Bridges has partnered with York County Emergency Services and in 2026, Matt Dorgan will be speaking with 911 new hires about the importance of treating callers with compassion while also recognizing the need for first responders to care for their own mental health.

Building Bridges is also partnering with WellSpan Health and will be presenting regularly to the social workers and other professionals on the front line every day, strengthening the support systems available in our community.

Plans are underway for remodeling the Dallastown office to accommodate additional counseling spaces.
