Building Bridges for Brianna

Building Bridges for Brianna, founded by Matt Dorgan in York County, PA, aims to prevent suicide and self-injury while supporting mental health nationwide. Inspired by the loss of his daughter, Brianna, Matt emphasizes community support and connecting those in need with help. The organization promotes suicide awareness, funds prevention programs, and supports families dealing with mental health issues.

Since meeting Matt in 2023, the York County Medical Foundation donated $60,000 to Building Bridges, enabling the organization to open up their first office where they were able to see clients. Within a year of opening, Building Bridges has moved to a new office in Dallastown, enabling them to service more persons needing mental health care. To date, Building Bridges has impacted over 175 clients!

On August 28, 2024, Matt was named the national winner of the Jefferson Award for Public Service!

September 9, 2024, Dr. Tiru and the York County Medical Foundation were recognized for all their support.

Building Bridges for Brianna Therapy Office Dedication to The York County Medical Foundation. In gratitude of support and dedication to building the bridge for mental health. 9/9/24

The York County Medical Foundation was founded in 1991 primarily to provide free care and surgical procedures to the poor, at home and in developing nations.

Dr. Vasudevan Tiruchelvam ("Dr. Tiru"), Foundation President, and his surgical teams perform free surgical procedures in third-world regions and bring both resources and hope to underserved areas of the world.

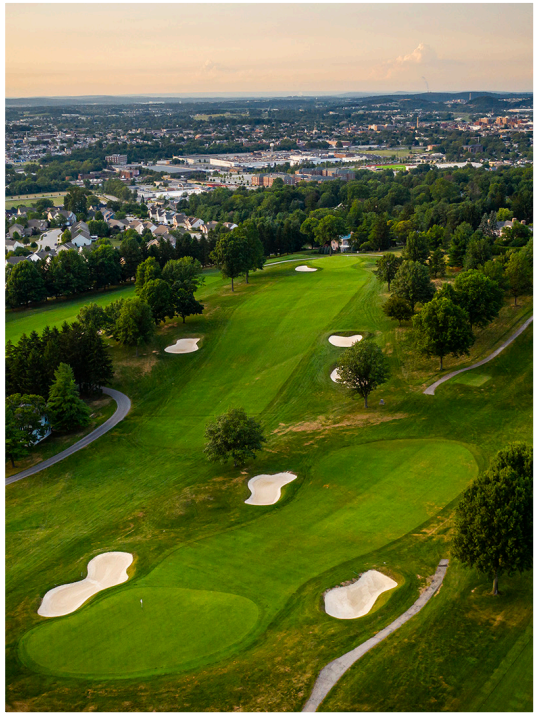

In addition to its work abroad, YCMF contributes to a wide variety of local organizations.
